Did you know that The Quarter Bar has a resident magician?

That's right! His name is Jared and he performs magic on Tuesdays and Fridays. It's maybe the most amazing thing I've ever seen. Cards, crazy linking rings, cups and balls - even my credit card - he does outrageous things with all of them. By far my favorite is when he produced my card from his mouth! Just make sure you put some bread in his jar at the end of the show!

Visit www.jaredbrandon.com for more info on this amazing dude!

You think you love The Quarter Bar like I love The Quarter Bar?

Long before I was old enough to drink I've been hanging out in bars. Most of them were rock clubs where my friends' bands were playing, dim smoky affairs with bossy jukeboxes and a lot of people standing around trying to be cooler than everyone else. I've hung out in some blue-collar bars in small Texas towns, in hostel bars in Las Vegas, a few biker bars in Dallas and I even went to The GhostBar once (... don't ask). I have always been in search of the perfect bar - a bar where on any day you can chill and read a book or surf the net, gossip with the girls, party 'till two or entertain old friends from out of town. Most importantly, you want a place (not to be too cliché) where everybody knows your name, where you feel safe and welcome. For me, that's The Quarter. I've had my birthday and my bachelorette parties here. I've had plenty of brainstorming sessions and crazy fun karaoke nights here. This place definitely has a regular cast of characters, from the staff, to the KJ's, to the owners, Beverly and Rudy. It's not your average Addison bar thank goodness. There's never a cover, plenty of parking, never a bladder-bursting line for the bathroom and best of all great food served until ridiculously late hours. It's the kind of place where people will sing along to songs at the top of their lungs and the dance floor is where you make it. On any night you can meet new, fabulous people from all walks of life—comedians, a magician, even an ex-Scientologist! So bring the girls or the guys or just your own bad self on down to The Quarter Bar!

Karaoke DJ Da Chowda Ties Knot at The Quarter - Literally!

On Saint Patty's Day, Chowda and his lovely fiancé Susan treated The Quarter Bar to a traditional Celtic hand-fastening ceremony celebrating their engagement. It was a packed house as friends and family showed up in authentic Scottish and Irish dress to join the two clans - Scottish MacBean and Irish Coffey (haha!)- together. The next day Chowda reported having to cut the night short because "they pumped too many shots into me." Only at The Quarter Bar!

If you could have theme music playing whenever you walked into a room, what would it be?

Tell us and we'll print your answers in the next issue! Post your responses on our Facebook at www.facebook.com/quarterbar

HEY, BARTENDER!

One of the best parts about bartenders is their seemingly limitless capacity to give sage-like advice. Got an issue on your mind or just a simple conundrum, like "Who thought that Shake Weight commercial was a good idea?" Post your question on our Facebook at www.facebook.com/quarterbar and we'll put it to our shaker-slinging gurus and print the answer in the next issue!

TAKE A CHEAP SHOT

When bartenders get bored, yummy things happen! Check out bartender Nick Green's latest recipe. You can make it yourself or just be super lazy and have him make it for you at the bar for $5.75. Because the economy sucks, smiles are always free!

The Nerd Alert! (cuz it tastes like the Nerd candies!)

1/2 oz. vodka

1/2 oz sour watermelon Schnapps (Pucker)

1/2 oz orange liqueur

Splash of sweet and sour

This is a great way to graduate from Jell-o shots!

SEEN ON THE SCENE!

"The entire night I had a 9ft German guy screaming at me 'I'm not gay!'."

- Reverend Dan, ex-Scientologist

Random guy getting low low low for the ladies! Looks like he made some cash too!

Karaoke legend Kevin! Most of the time he slays us all with his pitch perfect renditions of Ol' Blue Eyes (Frank Sinatra for all you kids out there) but every now and again he gets a wild hair and does "Sandman" by Metallica. Not to be missed!!!

$20 Scotch and Cigar Night

Join us Tuesday, April 20th from 6pm-8pm for our first Scotch & Cigar Night on the Patio. We'll be sampling Buchanan's Special Reserve, Buchanan's Twelve Year, and the new Crown Royal Black. These will be paired with some interesting cigar selections provided to us by our neighbor, Addison Cigar Company and there will also be a luscious buffet. All of this for just $20 but there are only 50 reservations being taken. So, let us know as soon as possible if you'd like a space and we'll get you on the list. A beautiful patio, scotch, cigars and food— what more could you want?

The Quarter Patio Bar is available for your private functions, just call or e-mail us for more information.

This month's Karaoke Super Stars

Oh we know you thought no one was paying attention when you got up there and sang that Night Ranger song five shots deep into the evening, but you were wrong!! Here are the singers who blew us away in the month of March. Rock on!

Quarter regular Adam Sweeney talks high kicks and why getting dirty can be so therapeutic

Adam Sweeney is getting his high kick back in full swing again. His passion for dance and cheerleading started when he became a gymnast. He cheered for RL Turner and UNT but didn't stop there. "Most people just quit after college," he says, "but it's the people with the real talent and passion for it who continue on." Currently he cheers with Dallas Pride Cheer, a group that performs to raise money for different organizations such as the AIDS Life Walk. Their next event is coming up on April 18th at Sue Ellens from 5pm to 8pm. "We'll be doing our stunts, some dancing and all of our routines," says Adam. A regular at The Quarter Bar for over four years, Adam says that he loves The Quarter Bar because "the atmosphere is awesome. I can go by myself and feel comfortable. I always make friends there. I've made a lot of friends there. The staff is wonderful, the food is wonderful, the drink specials are wonderful." He's also been known to get behind the karaoke mic once in a while. "I only sing one song and it's always me and one of my best girlfriends, Tracy. We do 'Bohemian Rhapsody' by Queen. I've never been onstage by myself because I'm too chicken. It just makes it so much more fun to be there, getting on stage and singing. And people don't make fun of you - or at least not that you can hear. We always have a good time there." His favorite memory at The Quarter was this past New Year's Eve and when he had the whole side of the bar reserved for him and his friends. "Bev made us place cards to save our seats," he says, "so we all made up Jersey Shore names for our place cards." When he's not raising awareness for important issues or partying at The Quarter, he's dreaming of going back and getting a second degree — this time in landscape architecture. "That's why I really want to buy a house with a yard so I can just do what I want to it. Getting your hands in the dirt is so therapeutic."

« That's Adam!!

Coverdown Unleashes the Funk at The Quarter Bar

Look out Le Freak! Though they might not have larger than life fro's, these cats definitely know how to play that funky music, white boy. I knew the moment they broke out with the cowbell I was gonna love this band. Made of ten members from a keyboardist, energetic bass player, sweet brass section to three uber-talented front crooners these guys know how to bring it. Diva Susan Coffey put it best when she purred into the mic, "As you can see we don't do anything nice and easy. We're gonna do it nice and rough." With a repertoire that includes "Shake Your Tailfeather", "Proud Mary" and "Superstitious" a good ass-shaking is practically guaranteed. For more information or to book them for your next event, visit them on Facebook at www.facebook.com/cover-down.
